The Sisters of Mercy.

Our age will be remembered for the establishment and wide diffusion of these important and salutary truths in regard to the exhibition of Christian Philanthropy in works of practical benevolence—namely, 1. That Charity, to be sure and justly useful, must be guided by Organization and System; and 2. That the best possible Charity is to the hale and vigorous Poor is that which simply and solely enables and encourages them to provide for their own wants by their own honest exertions.

The following account of a new Catholic organization in our City, devoting itself to the care and well-being of that numerous and most dependent class, the Servant Women, will, we are sure, be read with interest by all who rejoice at the mitigation of evils and the diffusion of good. It seems to us to afford valuable hints to others as well as Catholics. We copy from the last Freeman's Journal and Catholic Register:

THE ORDER OF THE SISTERS OF MERCY. It is perhaps not known to many of our readers that a religious community of Sisters of Mercy has been established in this City since the early part of 1860, and have been discharging quietly one of the best and most useful of duties, and in the most efficient manner. The object of the community is to visit the poor, sick, and suffering, to comfort the dying, to instruct the ignorant, and to provide for the wants of the poor.

In Foundress, Mrs. McCool, was a lady of singular and distinguished piety, who associated with herself a number of other ladies desirous of consecrating themselves to God and to the service of the poor, in a religious community. The community was established in 1860, and has since that time been discharging its duties in the most efficient manner. The community is now composed of about twenty Sisters, who are engaged in various works of charity.

The primary object of the members is their own sanctification, but as there is nothing selfish in charity, their aim is to be united in the love of God and of their fellow-creatures. The community is now composed of about twenty Sisters, who are engaged in various works of charity. The community is now composed of about twenty Sisters, who are engaged in various works of charity.

There is no doubt but the hope of seeing these evils removed, is not altogether removed, in this city, and the Sisters of Mercy are doing much to remove them. Hon. JOHN M. HOLLEY, an able and upright legislator, well known in our State Congress, has been nominated for Congress by the Whigs of Wayne County. Though a resident of Wayne, he was unanimously presented by the Delegates of Seneca, which County was entitled to the nomination. He ought to be elected, and we trust will be.

Grains of the Wounded.

From the Pennsylvania. "THE RESULT IN PENNSYLVANIA.—As the news from the different Counties of the State, of the Election of Tuesday, 12th inst., gradually received, all parties are swayed. The Democrats at their almost unvaried bad luck, and the Whigs at successes of which they had never dreamed. There is no doubt that the Whigs have won a overwhelming victory, and that the Democrats have been defeated. The Whigs have won a overwhelming victory, and that the Democrats have been defeated.
